

Mission Statement

Pacific Wrecks is a non-profit organization devoted to sharing information about World War II Pacific War and the Korean War online at PacificWrecks.org. Our mission is to conduct interviews, collect photographs, access archival materials and mount expeditions aimed at documenting the people, locations and wreckage of World War II and the Korean War. Pacific Wrecks advocates for the recovery of Missing In Action (MIA) personnel and the protection of remaining sites and artifacts to preserve the legacy of Pacific War for future generations.

Background

Since 1995, Pacific Wrecks is regarded as the world's premiere source for information on this topic. The website includes over 50,000+ pages of information and photographs updated and expanded daily.

Over the years, Pacific Wrecks is frequently cited in numerous books and articles including: Smithsonian Magazine "Swamp Ghosts", PBS Secrets of the Dead "Dogfight Over Guadalcanal", History Channel "Honor Deferred" and NBC Last Call With Carson Daly. An official commendation from the Papua New Guinea government acknowledges the websites provides "evidence as to the extent of the removal of these aircraft over the last decade and the complicity of the Museum to be of great assistance."
